

OGDEN-GRAM #4 6 Feb 2015

As time gets closer, plans are firming-up for the activities associated with our hosting of the Northwest Federation of Mineralogical Societies during Gemstone Junction 2015. Field trips and speakers during the show by individuals and our area clubs are planned, and folks not otherwise committed to jobs during the show are encouraged to participate.

Everyone is invited to the Saturday evening Awards Banquet at 7:00, with a “No-Host” happy hour starting at 6:00. The buffet entree' is your choice of BBQ ribs or Baked chicken, with Baked Beans, “Million Dollar Potatoes”, Salad, Dessert, etc. In addition to a great meal and chance to mingle with Rock-hounds from all over the Northwest; here is a once in a lifetime opportunity to hear Bob Jones, Contributing Editor of Rock And Gem Magazine speak! He will be describing his adventures in Mexico inside the deep cave containing Selenite crystals the size of telephone poles.

Club members are also encouraged to try their hand at competing for ribbons and trophies this year. We all have great material and crafted items worthy of Regional and National recognition. The registration form for competitive exhibits is elsewhere in this newsletter. Contact Tom Burchard or Evan Day If interested and need help in entering.

The Registration form for the NFMS meetings and meals is elsewhere in this Newsletter (forms are also on the NFMS Website). More details will follow in future Ogden-Grams. Questions? Contact Evan Day at 801-391-2912 or email to eday@sisna.com.
